JOB WORK

Of all kinds neatly, promptly and cheaply done at the office A WOMAN-SEARCHER.

The Disagreeable Work Performed by a The Secret of the Davis-Johnston Quar-Female Prison Attache.

Delroit Post.

Perhaps searching female prisoners is not one of the most grateful tasks in the world, but that is the vocation of a lady who resides in the Hawley block, and has lived there steadily in the same suite of rooms for sixteen years. Mrs. Hoose, the lady in question, is a pleasant-looking wo-man, still young. Nothing in he appearance would indicate any unusual strength or determination. She was not at all averse to being interviewed, nor did she seem to think there was anything unusual or unpleasant in her calling.

"I don't mind it at all," she said, "when ladies are sober, but when they have been drinking they sometimes make me a good deal of trouble. They are all innocent, every one of them, at least they say they are, and when I find the goods on them they wonder how they could have got there. I searched two colored girls the o her day who were accused of stealing $1.500 from a man who strayed into their den. They laughed at me and asked if I thought they wouldn't be smart to carry they money around with them. Anyhow they didn't have it."

"Have you many shop-lifters?"
"Yes; they are my best customers. One was brought to me not long ago who pleaded pitifully. She said she would give me all she had in the world if I would only let her go: that her husband was a respectable man and it would break his heart. I had to search her, and I found concealed under each armpit a splendid bead cord and tassel. One smuggler whom I searched had no underwear on, whole pieces of goods were rolled around her; her hair was very thick and I found several pairs of kid gloves twisted up in it. Her linsband never came near her, but her brother tried his best to get her cleared."

"Do the women you search belong to a very low class?"

"I search the worst and the best. Many cases never get into the papers. Welldressed and respectable women get drnnk and disorderly; and brought in, and they send for me to go to the station and search their pockets for their names and address, and for morphine, as these women are all morphine cliewers.

"If her husband is sent for to take her Its wide circulation therefore home and pay a fine, he always lays her wrong-doings to morphine. There is amtwice a year go out on a spree with some gentlemen friends who are sure to accuse them of stealing their pocket-books. One man dropped his pocker-book on the street and had a lady arrested whom he said had picked it up. I searched her, but found nothing, and she was let go."

"Are they very much frightened when you examine them?"

"Yes, and they offer me everything to let them go, but I tell them I must do my duty and usually coax them a little; but force. Sometimes I have such hard characters to search that the policemen who bring them in are afraid to let me go in a room alone with them. But they never offer me any harm. Some of them are dressed beautifully and with good taste, too. It is not allowable for the men to search them; but one respectable lady, who was brought in for shop-lifting, or 'kleptomania,' as they call it now, refused her daughter in England to bring her, with to have me search her, and the captain of her husband and two children, to this the precinct searched her. I tell you it country. When the remittance was rewould melt a heart of stone sometimes to ceived the husband was ill in a hospital, hear them go on. A WOMAN IN THE CASE.

Washington special: As public attention is all agog over the specie, I deem it a fit opportunity to write something in reference to the origin of the coolness that has for years existed between Mr. Davis and General Johnston. As too often the ease it may be traced directly to the ladies of their respective honseholds. Gen. Johnston's wife was Miss McLane, of Balti nore a lady of great beauty and commanding presence, and in her veins conrsed tle bluest blood of old Maryland, while her husband belonged to one of Virginia's best old families. They were were young and

They were, married in that city. She was a brunette, with dark, fine eyes, was very Spanish-looking, and she was enormously rich, being the daughter of a mermerchant of that city, but social history says nothing of her pedigree. She was the wife a United States Senator, an exsecretatry of war. These ladies were rival leaders of fashion-Mrs. Johnston with all the pride of birth, &c. Mrs. Davis with money and Mr. Davis as a husband. The caldron finned in Washington and the bitterness was renewed when they appeared in Richmond. Shows then the wife of the Pressident, and Mrs. Johnston's husband was a lienten nt general; and right here it is reported that Mrs. President Davis undertook to ignore Mrs. General Johnston. This of course, was not to be quietly borne. General Johnston was winning fame every day. Finally, so the gossips have it, Mr. Davis espon-ed the cause of his wife, and henceforth General Johnston was impeded at every point in his brilliant career. Many persons believe that had it not been for Mrs. Davis' jealonsy of Mrs. Johnston, no unpleasantness would now exist between the gentle-

I know when Bricekinridge left he sent back in a few hours by his own son a sack of specie, p rhaps $6,-000, which he found it impossible to convey safely, and it was thrown over into my front yard. I had it turned over to an honest gentleman in my town for the purpose of buying food for returning soldiers; but a Captain Abrams, from an lowa company, took most of it away from the gentleman; and I have never heard of it since. I was forced to escape; but I heard, after my return from Europe, that an escort to about $250,000 belonging to the Richmond banks had been overpowered and plunderif they resist they know I would use main ed by the soldiers and lawless men, who filled that section of the country at the time."

The Republicans in Control.

After a retirement of six years, the Republicans have returned to power in the House of Representatives and the result of the first few weeks of this power are thus reviewed by the Springfield Repub-

The first thing necessary was the election of speaker. This was effected by the direct and brutal dictation of Don Cameron. With the double purpose of taking care of Pennsylvania and of punishing the anti-Grant Hiscock, Cameron decided that he would swing his state for Keifer. It made no difference to the boss that several of the Pennsylvania members had pledged their support to Hiscock, even in writing. He told them frankly that they must obey the boss and follow his judgment rather than their own, even though they left in Hiscock's hands ample evidence of their own dishonor. All but one of the Pennsylvania Republican delegation accepted the humiliating bondage and voted for Keifer in the caucus, and that one was gotten drunk, and in this condition was voted for the same candidate. This is the way the Republican speaker was nominated. We do not say that he was a party to the most disgraceful feature of the scandal, but that he was raised to power by Cameron, to aid the Cameron cause and punish its enemies, cannot be questioned.

The projection of the Cameron influence across the organization of the house was Hotel, Lexington. accompanied by another circumstance of ill-omen—the prominence of Robeson, open house on New Year's and invited Grant's Secretary of the Navy, who narrowly escaped impeachment for corruption during his term of service in that de- and killed by Clay Cranshaw, a saloon partment. In pursuit of the well-known Cameronian policy, he had exiled the ablest and best men of both parties to obscure and unimportant committees, and brought the jobbers to the front. He gave the chaira foolish and impotent old man, deadly opposed to any advance upon one of the most pressing issues of the time. Kasson will have to throw Kelly overboard praceffected. Nothing can be more disheartening to the best Republican sentiment of the country than to see their majority in the national House of Representatives crawling before Cameron, placing its neck beneath his heel, surrendering alike the capacity to legislate wisely or to undo bad legislation and laying itself open to corrupt combinations.

Sudden Death at Vanceburg.

Mr. Bruce Thomas, son of Judge G. M. Thomas, and the son-in-law of Rev. H. C. Northcott, of this city, died suddenly at Vanceburg this morning at four o'clock, of an overdose of medicine taken to alleviate pain. The sad intelligence was recrived here by telegraph this morning.

The city council at Portsmouth, Ohio, at a late meeting decided to renew the contract with the gas company for three years the basis of $2.25 a thousand feet for private and public consumers, and $27 a year for posts. If gas can be supplied to private and public consumers at that price in Portsmouth, why can not the same be done in Maysville? This is a question the public would like to have answered.

At 2 p. m. yesterday the funeral services of Mr. Henry Johnson were held in Washington Opera Honse in presence of a large congregation. The fire companies were all out in full force, and beside these a large attendance of ladies and citizens, to pay the sad offices of respect to the memory of the deceased. Fire at Vanceburg.

The town of Vanceburg was visited by a disastrous fire on Friday morning. About five o'clock the large dry goods and grocery house of L. B. Baird, was fired, it is supposed by burglars, and burned to the ground, entailing a loss of about $4,000. While a number of the citizens were in the burning building endeavoring to stay the flames, a keg of powder exploded, injuring several of them severely. Mr. Thos. Bullock, a young lawyer, had his wrist broken. A strong wind prevailed at the time and but for a heavy snow which had fallen it would have been difficult to have saved the town. There was no insurance on the property burned.

Tur Ripley people seem to be a little sore over the defeat of the City of Ionton by the Maysville packet Morning Mail. The Budget says:

There has been considerable disenssion among some of our citizens as to Wolch is the fastest boat-the Morning Mail or the City of Ironton. The fact that the former boat arrived at our wharf several minutes ahead of the latter is not conclusive evidence that she can beat her. We are reliably informed that the Morning Mail keeps the fires under her botters all night, in order to raise steam at once the next morning. This the Ironton does not do—she starts her fires in the morning. Without the least doubt the City of Iranton, is a very fleet steamer, and the Morning Mail will earn a great victory if she succeeds in beating her. It is the opiniou of river men that if the two boats were allowed to carry the same number of were allowed to carry the same number of pounds of stemm, the Ironton could casily show the other boat a clean pair of heels. The officers of the Ironton have offered to wager $1,-000 that their boat can beat the Mull In a fair
